THE WAGE QUESTION.

The Carnegie, Phipps & Co. Home Sewer works have inaugurated a new basis upon which to pay their workmen, the pay being according to the quantity of the product, but on a sliding scale, varying upward and downward as the price of the product rises and falls in the market. The oil scale simply provided for the payment of wages proportioned to product, but irrespective of prices. The new plan, says the Madison Journal, makes the workmen share in the risks of the market with the owners, but, with a liberal construction on their part, would seem to make this plan about as equitable as any that could be devised. For the month of May last it is calculated that this plan would amount to a reduction of wages of about 20 per cent., owing to the low price of steel. But the prices in May had about reached their minimum, and as they must thereafter rise without limit the compensation for the reduction must soon follow. Even with that reduction, the daily wages of workmen, graded according to degree of skill, were estimated at from $1.90 to $3.75. These cannot be termed starvation rates. But the actual rates paid were from $2.55 to $5.04. In negotiating for an agreement between workmen and proprietors to continue for three years, represented on one side by the company and on the other by the Amalgamated Association of Iron and Steel Workers, the company agreed to leave it to any one of the Amalgamated Association to establish the average price, provided he be known to the company as an honest man. It is not easy to see how a more liberal concession could be made with any degree of safety to the proprietors. If there could be the payment of wages on the basis of the cost of the material, such an arrangement would go a great way toward abolishing strikes which as a rule are the most costly, extravagant and unsatisfactory means of adjusting the question of wages which could possibly be put in operation. The views of the two parties to the wage question are certainly approaching an equilibrium, and it is at that point is ever reached it will mark one of the greatest economic results which has ever been obtained.

The Boston Post makes a many mistakes, says the New York Tribune, in denouncing naval matters that it is useless to attempt to argue with it, especially in this season of inclement heat. Mr. Roach's original bids for the Dolphin and the cruisers aggregated $2,410,000; Cramp's, for the same work, $2,755,000; Harlan & Hollingsworth's (without the Dolphin), $2,672,000. The vessels at this rate were cheap, compared to the bids for the bids for the Whitney cruisers. Mr. Roach did not design the vessels, but agreed to build them under government inspection; and everybody knows that if Secretary Whitney is dealing to-day with the Cramps and the Union Iron Works, the firm would never have been forced into bankruptcy, and there would have been genuine competition for the building of the Whitney cruisers. The democratic secretary set out to make partisan capital out of the charges which had been bruited for many years by the press of his party against republican administration of the navy. Mr. Roach was the innocent victim of that partisanship, his only crime being that of putting in the lowest bid for work designed and supervised by the department.

An exchange publishes the following: In 1816 one bushel of corn would buy one pound of nails; in 1859 one bushel of corn would buy ten pounds of nails. In 1816 one pair of woolen blankets cost as much as a cow; in 1859 a cow will buy five pair of blankets. In 1816 it required sixty-four bushels of barley to buy one yard of broadcloth; in 1859 sixty-four bushels of barley will buy twenty yards of broadcloth. In 1816 it took 20 dozen eggs to buy one bushel of salt; in 1880 twenty dozen eggs will buy ten bushels of salt. In 1816 one bushel of wheat bought one yard of calico; in 1889 one bushel of wheat will buy fifteen or twenty yards of calico, and yet you hear some people creak of the "good old times of their grandfathers' day." Will free traders say in the face of the above that protection to American industries makes the consumer poor? The comparison would have been still more striking if the prices of cotton fabrics and prints and almost every other kind of manufactured goods had been included.

A Buffalo man lately challenged the wife of a friend to produce a person who would dare contest with him for the pie-eating championship. A Montana man not long ago, single-handed and alone, consumed three dozen consecutive boiled eggs; last year or the year before last, the new south brought to the front a man who could eat a quail a day for as many days as the supply of quail held out; a naturalized citizen of German descent at a recent picnic drank 102 glasses of beer, and it wasn't a very good day for drinking beer either—and yet here is William Blake, in the July "Harper" inquiring, Is American Stamina Declining?

KUNZE IS A SQUEALER.

HE TELLS OF HIS CONNECTION WITH THE CRONIN MURDER.

His Story Confirms the Grand Jury's Information—A Physician—A Watchman—A Robber—A Criminal.

CHICAGO, July 3.—John Kunze, who drove Dan Cronin to the Carlson cottage the night Dr. Cronin was murdered, was kept a close prisoner in the Halsted street station all day. Schuetzler removed him there to keep him away from people interested in seeing him about other crimes besides the murder of Dr. Cronin. Until last night the prisoner maintained a stolid demeanor, and pleaded absolute ignorance of the murder conspiracy. Attorney Edmund Furthmann, who defended him when he was in custody about a year ago for swindling a number of North Siders out of considerable sums of money, called to see him about last evening and fully identified him. Kunze was considerably agitated when he saw his old attorney, and showed evidence of fright when Furthmann told him that he was in a bad fix. "You had better tell all you know if you want to save your own neck," said the attorney. After that interview Kunze was led back to his cell, from which he was taken an hour later by the instance of Capt. Schuetzler. The latter plied the fellow with questions about his association with Cronin, and he finally admitted that he drove the ex-detective to the Carlson cottage between 8 and 9 o'clock on the night Dr. Cronin was murdered. He also admitted that he and Burke were with Cronin when the latter visited Dr. George N. Cass, the Fulton street veterinary surgeon, and tried to hire his fast horse. He said, however, that he did not know where Cronin got the horse, and that he did not know where Cronin drove to the corner of Chicago avenue and Wells street, and they started from there about 8 o'clock, driving north at a rapid clip. Cronin told him when the cottage was reached to drive to a secluded street corner and remain there an hour, and after that to return to the cottage. Kunze obeyed his instructions to the letter. The buggy had scarcely stopped before the cottage the second time when Cronin came out and climbed up behind Kunze, who drove rapidly away. The two proceeded to the corner of Chicago avenue and Clark street, where Cronin told Kunze to get out. Kunze says he does not know where the ex-detective went after that. He suspected that a crime of some sort had been committed in the cottage, but what it was he did not know. Relative to Cronin and Burke, whom he met not only at 117 Clark street, but at the Carlson cottage, he said he knew very little about them. He did not know where they came from, Cronin, but he never found out anything about the business they were engaged in. Kunze says he heard Cronin refer to Dr. Cronin quite frequently, and that he made threats against him on more than one occasion, but he did not know that the doctor had been murdered the night he drove Cronin to the cottage until he read the papers Monday morning.

It is believed that Kunze has also made important revelations concerning the Shurfelt distillery outrage, in which he took a more or less active part from the beginning. Captain Schuetzler tried to get from him a story of a plot which was hatched by Cronin and Burke to force his home to Lake View last March, but he did not meet with much success. As the story goes, Mr. Lyness was told that he would find Kunze in Lake View on a certain night, and he started out to get him. Before he had proceeded far, however, he was warned to return home and he did so. He does not believe that Cronin wanted to lure him to the Carlson cottage, but he evidently thinks that a trap was laid so he could be roughly treated by the enemies who plotted the destruction of his property.

BERKE IN COURT.

The Winnipeg Prisoner Before Judge Bain.

WINNIPEG, Man., July 3.—Little has yet been done in the Burke case. Mr. Howell amended the information under which Burke is held by adding to it the names of Martin Delaney and Frank Williams. He then produced the documentary evidence brought in by Mr. Baker, assistant State's attorney. He put in as evidence the indictment of Burke before the grand jury, the warrant for Burke's arrest issued by the clerk of the Criminal court of Chicago, and the depositions. The opposing counsel raised technical objections at every stage of the proceedings to the receipt of the report, but Judge Bain decided against every objection raised by Mr. Ferlie and Mr. Campbell. The judge also stated that he thought it was a question whether the mere proving of Burke's identity with the person named in the Chicago indictment would be sufficient to justify his extradition.

LEAPED TO DEATH.

A Young Man Jumps from a Third-Story Hotel Window.

CHICAGO, July 3.—A young man named George W. Hull attempted suicide in a most horrible manner at the Palmer house about 1 o'clock this afternoon. Hull first dived himself of every particle of clothing and then climbed out of a third-story window, threw himself headlong to the pavement below, crushing his skull, and sustaining other terrible injuries. Hull was alive when picked up, but his death is a question of a few hours. Hull came to the hotel four days ago and registered from Leadville, Colo. He was given a parlor and seemed to have plenty of money, but his actions lately aroused the suspicion of the hotel attaches and caused them to doubt his sanity. There is no doubt that the young man was insane. He was taken to the county hospital.

BEATEN AND ROBBED.

Masked Robbers Raid a Physician's Residence in Pennsylvania.

GREENSBURG, Pa., July 3.—Dr. I. T. Smith, a physician of high standing in Pleasant Unity, near here, was aroused early yesterday morning by a loud rap at his door, and upon asking the cause was told a man wanted a tooth pulled. The unsuspecting doctor had no sooner opened the door than he was confronted by three men, all masked, who with drawn revolvers demanded his money. Resistance was in vain. He was knocked down and beaten in a most fiendish and inhuman manner and left for dead. The desperadoes then overpowered the rest of the household, robbed the house of between $100 and $200, and disappeared in the darkness. The alarm was given as soon as they departed, and scores of determined men started on trial of the robbers, but the pursuit has proved fatal. Dr. Smith's injuries may prove fatal.

A Suicide's Awful End.

PORTAGE, Wis., July 3.—Edward Buckbusch of this city last night set fire to his house and barn and then went to a work house and hanged himself.

He was near by and seemed to have plenty of money, but his actions lately aroused the suspicion of the hotel attaches and caused them to doubt his sanity. There is no doubt that the young man was insane. He was taken to the county hospital.

Gotham Police Unearth a Conspiracy. New York, July 3.—The police have arrested three suspicious persons whose capture, it is believed, is highly important in probably leading to the detection of an organized band of thieves who have carried on extensive depredations recently on downtown furnishing stores. It is thought thieves were in collusion with clerks, who stole goods and turned them over to the thieves. The detectives say the arrests will lead to the revelation of a remarkable scheme of robbery.

Alleged Telegram from McInerney.

New York, July 2.—William Connolly, the castle garden labor bureau superintendent, a close friend of the missing Dr. McInerney, this afternoon received a message from his friend saying: "I am well, and was never in better health. My mission, as you well know, has nothing whatever to do with politics or other public matters. I am away on purely personal matters."

A Murder Mystery Solved.

CHICAGO, July 3.—The mystery which for months surrounded the murder of Frank C. Clark, the West Side drugist, who was shot under such peculiar circumstances the evening of Feb. 21, has finally been cleared up. Clark was murdered by Eddie, alias "Dirty" Foy, a West Side tough and crook, while resisting burglary in his store. Foy is now in Joliet serving a ten year sentence for highway robbery.

THE QUEEN FAILING.

England's Sovereign Feels Her Years.—Cannot Now Keep Up Her Health.

New York, July 3.—Edmund Yates, in his London cable to the Tribune, says: The Queen caught a slight chill coming from Scotland. Each journey now does her more than the last. It was a time doubtful whether she would be able to attend the show on Thursday. It is said she was determined to be present at all hazards, but when she did come it was evident her weakness occasioned much pain to those who witnessed it. Her Majesty was not only compelled constantly to use a stick, but was obliged to have recourse to the assistance of her servants on entering and leaving the carriage.

Cardinal Newman Has Returned from Rome.

New York, July 3.—Cardinal Newman, who was in Rome for some time, has returned to his home in London. He is in good health, being in fact as active at 89 as he was when he and the century were a decade younger. Though his mind is as clear as when he was a young man, his hands have become feeble, and he writes only with great effort; and the difficulty is increased by a slight failure of the eyesight. But the cardinal still seems well enough to read his daily paper and scan the obituary column, in which the record of deaths of persons who were almost contemporaries of his own is not without interest to him.

One of the most remarkable features in the Shah's performance at Covent Garden.

He delivered a lecture on the history of the adjoining market before he was taxed to the utmost. Two large bodigets will be placed in every box, and the occupant of each stall will receive a copy of the book. The staircase has been turned into a forest of palms. The largest Persian carpet in England has been spread in the crush-room, reserved exclusively for the use of the Royal party. The sovereign presents are works of art. It is to be devotedly hoped his majesty will not put them to the profane use which so many of the great artists of the world have regarded as a favor by those upon whose heads they fell.

DAVITT ON THE STAND.

He Testifies Before the Parrell Commission—Refuting Le Caron's Evidence.

LONDON, July 3.—Mr. Michael Davitt was examined before the Parrell commission to-day. He declared that there was no truth in the account given by Le Caron before the commission to the effect that proposals of John Devoy had been submitted to Mr. Parrell. Mr. Parrell had nothing to do with the witness' visit to America in 1878. The witness intended to make another visit to America in order to raise money to help the agrarian movement. Mr. Davitt stated that while in America he attended meetings of the Clan-na-Gael, at which he explained the objects of the Land League and tried to win the Clan-na-Gael to its support. The latter society, he said, included some of the best Irishmen in America. It was no more a "murder club" than was the Carlton club of London. There was no alliance between the Clan-na-Gael and the league in Ireland. The league movement in America was the support of all the Irish in America to Mr. Parrell.

Mr. Davitt said that he never met a better philanthropist and Christian than Patrick Ford. He was very sorry that for some months he had been unable to establish Mr. Ford openly advocated the use of dynamite. The witness wrote to him expostulating against his indorsement of such a line of action, and immediately Mr. Ford returned to the policy adopted by Mr. Parrell's followers, and now honestly advocates constitutional agitation.

Witness said that he had intended to examine the use of dynamite because it was an immoral and unmanly style of warfare. He was not opposed to physical force if, in resorting thereto, there was a reasonable chance of success.

A TERRIBLE EXPLOSION.

Six Persons Killed in a Paris Fireworks Factory and Many Others Missing.

PARIS, July 2.—A terrible explosion occurred to-day at the Ruggier fireworks factory. Six bodies have been taken out, and twelve persons employed in the factory are missing and it is feared have been killed. An immense crowd surrounded the factory watching the search for bodies.

A Monster Petreification.

BRAZIL, Ind., July 3.—A petrified turtle has been found near here, which weighs 53,000 pounds. A house-mover is transporting it to the railroad.

Bank Thieves in Indiana.

LOONIER, Ind., July 3.—While cashier thieves entered the building and secured several hundred dollars.

Until the blood is cleansed of impurities, it is useless to attempt the cure of any disease, rheumatism, which is traceable to an acid in the blood, has been cured, in numerous cases, by the use of Ayer's Sarsaparilla, external treatment being of no avail.

For the next meeting of the National Educational Association, the Chicago & Northwestern Railway Company will sell tickets to Nashville, Tenn., and return, good going from July 1st to July 15th, and good returning from July 16th to September 10th, at rate of one lowest limited first class fare for the round trip, with $2.00 additional for Association membership fee. —Notwithstanding the fact that no general celebration will be observed in Janeville on the fourth, the indications are that there will be considerable life and patriotism in the city. The river pleasure resorts are offering attractions for the people, while the old settlers will talk over early reminiscences at Crystal Springs and enjoy their annual picnic with their younger friends. In the evening there will be several private exhibitions of fire works in different parts of the city. Of course, business will be generally suspended, and everybody will celebrate in a "free-for-all" fashion.

—A number of real estate agents of Chicago have devised something entirely new and attractive for the evening of July 4th. They propose in the midst of the display of fire works to shoot off a rocket having attached to it the deed of a valuable residence lot of that city, and the first man who finds the deed will own the lot. It is expected that there will be some lively hunting for the deed. Some body suggests that the directors of Forest Park should adopt such a scheme. It might prove an impetus which would result in an extensive building boom in that part of the city. It is a very novel way of advertising at least, and a very sure way to dispose of lots.

—The exercises of the early settlers at Crystal Springs to-morrow morning will begin about 10:30 o'clock. The Milton Cornet Band will furnish the music for the occasion, and the choir of Center will also render a few selections. A select reading will be given by Mrs. J. B. Day. The orators of the day are: Judge H. A. Patterson and Judge J. W. Sale. The exercises promise to be of unusual interest. Among those who will tell us of early reminiscences are D. W. Dwight, Aaron Bronghton, Wm. H. Stark, Ezra Goodrich, R. T. Pember, Andrew Barless, John Bemis, William Monzes, Mark Honeysett, Daniel Johnson, K. J. Burdige, Dr. J. W. St. John and Dr. J. B. Whiting. At the close an effort will be made to organize an old settlers association of Rock county.

THE BOARD SUSTAINS.

SETTING A SCHOOL DIFFICULTY IN THE TOWN OF ROCK.

In school district No. 5, in the town of Rock one of the most successful teachers in the 23rd superintendent district was employed to teach the winter term of school. One of her pupils, a seventeen-year-old boy, a son of a former teacher and an ex-officer of said district, took exceptions to the rules by which the schools had been governed for the past six years. The rules were posted up in the school room and were subscribed to and approved by the parent as an officer and his associates at the time as officers. The rule complained of by the boy and his father was in reference to his seat, the teacher directed him to occupy; he refused to comply with the order or request of the teacher and said that he should not comply with the rules of the school and his father told him to need not comply. The teacher advised him of the consequence; he still refused to comply and the teacher suspended him from the school and reported the matter to the school board, who, after investigation, sustained the teacher and expelled the boy from the school. The boy then applied to the board of school directors for a writ of habeas corpus, who promptly made an investigation of the trouble and his decision was to sustain the teacher and the school board in their action. The parent then applied to the board of school directors for a writ of habeas corpus, who promptly made an investigation of the trouble and his decision was to sustain the teacher and the school board in their action. TABACCO CROP DAMAGED.

MANY CROPS IN NEW YORK AND PENNSYLVANIA RUINED BY FLOODS.

The only report so far received is regarding the destruction wrought to the growing crop by the great flood, the large acreage greatly damaged or entirely ruined, of ground already to receive the plants, and the many instances of loss of the '88 crop, which a large number of growers had not yet sold but which was in case awaiting a purchaser. From Horrellsville on the west to Binghampton at the eastern boundary of this district, and from Ithaca on the north to Elkland and Westfield on the south comes the same story of the almost total destruction of the crop set (about 25 per cent.) and the most inalienable damage to farms over the entire area. Many growers not only lost the results of their work already done, and are obliged to banish all idea of a crop this season, owing to the badly washed condition of their fields; but in many cases they have suffered the further loss of the entire stock of old tobacco on hand. One grower at 'Big Flats' loses six tons of fine '88 leaf. Another item of loss is the almost total destruction of seed beds, cash and plants having gone in the general smash. The outlook of the growers in this heretofore favored district is indeed gloomy. Many fields which for years have yielded abundant crops of fine leaf, and have therefore proved a fruitful source of revenue for their owners, are now covered with a coating several feet in thickness of river gravel, which will unfit them forever for successful cultivation. The loss to growers cannot be estimated, but it will be hundreds of thousands of dollars. Lack of mail communication with many points have made it impossible to ascertain the names and amount of damages sustained but the probability is that there is not a man whose land faces the river or is not situated upon the second bench, but what has lost heavily. Rather meagre particulars have been received from the following places:

The loss at Painted Post is at least $150,000 in cash and plants. A number of crops had not been sold, and they were swept away by the raging waters. Nearly all tobacco set has been washed out. The damage at Big Flats is wide spread, some of the finest farms in the valley being ruined.

At Corning there has been no accurate accounting of the damages inflicted by this unprecedented freshet. The water overran the valuable farming lands in the east part of the town, and the river, and great was the loss thereby. It destroyed the growing crops, carried away the rich surface of the cultivated soil, scooped great furrows in the bottom of the fields, and covered the land with a deposit of gravel.

The damage is enormous at Monticell, Pa. and Southport, N. Y.

At Addison the water was four feet deep on many farms. All plans set have been destroyed. Some farms have not a fence remaining. In many places the plant beds have been saved.

At Cheumung heavy losses are reported. Many farms are badly washed.

At Elmira and Wellsburg, are injured, and at Lowman nearly all the fields are washed, and the crop already set is ruined. Flood trash and gravel covers the land which had been prepared to receive plants.

At Tioga the damages are beyond computation. Several sheds and a large amount of the '88 crop is destroyed. It may be said of our crop in Wisconsin, Rock county that the prospects are good and prices for the '88 crop are far above the average. A good package of 1900 cases well cured is being offered here by one of our large dealers at 9 cents per pound. This will pay both grower and packer a fair profit.
